

Meijer has a longstanding commitment to buying locally-grown produce and works with more than 125 local growers within our six-state footprint to deliver the fresh options that our customers have come to expect. Mouzin Brothers Farms, a third generation family farm in southern Indiana, is one of our partners helping us provide locally-grown options to customers.

For more than 15 years, Meijer has purchased sweet corn, watermelon and pumpkins from the family farm. Brothers Dennis and Ed Mouzin operate their 5,000-acre farm with the help of several family members, including their children, to help ensure they deliver high quality products to Meijer stores.

"It's always better to get produce locally because our food safety standards are so high. It gives customers fresher, better produce," Dennis Mouzin said.
