

Art has always been a passion for the Meijer family. This summer, Meijer extended its partnership with the Grand Rapids Art Museum (GRAM), making a donation that allows the museum to continue to offer guests free general admission on Tuesdays as part of “Meijer Free Tuesdays.” Additionally, Meijer expanded its donation to include “Meijer Free Thursday Nights.”

Meijer made the gift of covering admission costs to encourage new and returning visitors to explore the galleries and take advantage of tours and other programs the museum offers.

“We are especially grateful to Meijer for their expanded support of GRAM and our service to the whole community,” GRAM Director & CEO Dana Friis-Hansen said. “[With] The extension of Meijer Free Tuesdays and now, the addition of Meijer Free Thursday Nights, the museum will serve a broader range of the community as well as visitors with dynamic art exhibitions, ever-changing collection galleries, and exciting learning initiatives.”

This summer GRAM has several featured exhibits and a concert series. For more information on events, visit www.artmuseumgr.org for specific dates and times.
