

Meijer Puts Wellness Within Reach at In-Store Events

Health and wellness looks different for every customer and every family. For some, it may mean staying on top of preventive screenings or vaccines. For others, it may be finding products that support daily routines, learning more about seasonal wellness needs, or simply having a trusted pharmacy team available to answer questions.

That's why Meijer continues to bring helpful health and wellness resources directly into its stores through Wellness Events designed to make care, education and everyday healthy choices more accessible.

Hosted at Meijer Supercenter and Grocery locations, the events give customers an opportunity to connect with Meijer Pharmacy team members, explore health and wellness services, and discover products that can support their wellbeing. Recent events have included complimentary samples and coupons, free blood pressure screenings, vaccine education, food demos and resources tied to seasonal wellness topics.

The continued growth of Meijer Wellness Events reflects the company's commitment to caring for customers and enriching lives in the communities it serves. By bringing together pharmacy services, fresh food, over-the-counter products, wellness brands and everyday essentials under one roof, Meijer is uniquely positioned to support customers at many points along their health and wellness journeys.

Whether customers are checking their blood pressure, picking up a prescription, learning about vaccines or finding products that help support their daily routines, Meijer Wellness Events turn everyday shopping trips into opportunities for healthier choices.

Through these events, Meijer continues to show what caring for customers looks like in action: making health and wellness more convenient, more approachable and more accessible for all.
